Empowering kids, parents, and teachers

K12Genie provides families with school-aged children free access to informative articles, fun activities, recipes, an online brag wall, local resources, and events that both educate and strengthen their relationships as they grow together as a family. We partner with experts to produce events, seminars, and interactive workshops for schools and communities that foster positive interactions between siblings and between generations.

K12Genie is for parents, kids and teens, educators, and friends and family. We welcome your submissions. Please send original articles to submissions@k12genie.com. Find more information on what submissions we accept at our website, www.k12genie.com.
